CUM: Making it Big

Jeb Handwerger, The Gold Report (09/03/2010)

"As mining improves in British Columbia due to broad-based support, investment demand for BC miners may increase. I expect a pickup in mergers and acquisitions in BC in 2011—especially ones for which we've seen previous takeover bids, such as...Copper Mountain Mining.

Copper Mountain is on track to commence a mine this year. After rejecting Taseko's unsolicited bid in 2009, Copper Mountain has been busy building one of the largest copper mines in Canada. This is a past producer that expects to be producing copper by June of 2011. Copper Mountain is fully financed and will be producing 105 Mlbs. of copper annually. They expect to be in preproduction later this month. The recent price breakout is demonstrating investor demand in a company that is transforming into a large producer of copper and precious metal byproducts."
